ARMY CALLED IN TO NATION'S CAPITAL

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

"Examinations are formidable, even to the best prepared, for the greatest fool may ask more than the wisest man can answer" ... Charles C. Cotton.

The cool spell has almost stilled the voices of the frogs across the way.

Two Titmice searching for Sunflower seeds in the feeder. When they find one, they zip to the limb up from them, grab the seed in one toe and peck away the outer covering to reveal the goodie.

A pair of Towhees going about the business of keeping house.

"Nature has left this tincture in the blood, that all men would be tyrants if they could" ... Daniel Defoe.

"April is the cruellest month, mixing Memories and desire, stirring, Dull roots with spring rain." ... T. S. Eliot

Seems a shame not to greet old Sport with great joy each morning. However, if you do, he gets all over you. Sport will not be satisfied with just a pleasant "good morning, Sport," and let it go at that. He has to let you know how glad he is to see you by climbing all over you, batting you with his number 12's slobbering with great sounds, much snoring, grunting, dancing, jiggling, and otherwise just making a mess out of everything within a ten square foot area.

Of course we would like to greet him warmly with exclamations of joy, words of praise, etc. but we don't dare.

Sport will just have to be satisfied with a short, slightly distant, friendly, but not too friendly, courteous but slightly reserved, "good morning Sport," possibly with a slight nod of the head in his direction, or even possibly a reserved pat on the head. Of course if we have on some old clothes and don't mind being made muddy from head to toe, being inundated with various and sundry smells, odors, debris, etc. we will greet him roundly with much thumping on the backsides, and hollering.

Mrs. Fred Gingles contributed of her talent and experience with flowers in a most delightful way to make the April meeting of the Garden Department of the Murray Woman's Club a memorable Easter season occasion.

She disclosed some of the professional secrets of mechanics in flower arranging in her talk on "Designing Ways with Flowers." The group studied four designs including suggestions as to pattern, balance and choice of material. The various steps and guides were illustrated in the arrangements she had made, using spring flowers from her own garden.

Members expressed love and appreciation for Mrs. Gingles' active participation and guidance in Garden Department projects over the years.

Mrs. Joan Ryan, whose enthusiasm and devotion has endeared her to Garden Department members, and who has recently returned from an extended absence from the city, was an extra dividend on the program.

Delicious confections in special Easter designs and punch were served from a beautifully appointed table, enhanced by a graceful flower arrangement. Mrs. J. B. Wilson, department chairman, presided at the punch bowl.

In the business session the department voted to contribute money for a special shrub or tree for the landscaping of Jewel Manor, the home for girls maintained by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Louisville.

Announcement was made that members are to bring to the May meeting an arrangement they have made, using the triangle design explained and illustrated by Mrs. Gingles.

The group studied four books pertaining to the mission work in Africa with Mrs. Frances Dailey capital of the confederacy.

Mrs. Dailey was assisted in the program presentation by Mrs. Vivian Farris, Mrs. Prudence Adams, Mrs. Kathryn Langston, Mrs. Irene Smotherman, and Mrs. Orr.

Also present for the meeting were Mrs. Berlene Vance, Mrs. Eva Brandon, Mrs. Ora Joyce, and Mrs. Mary Turnbow.

A potluck lunch was served at the noon hour.

'Desirable' Widow Seeks Decent Man

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What is a widow to do? I'm not ready for a rest home yet, being only 41 years old. I have two attractive, well-behaved children, a nice home, no debts, and a good steady income. No worries, except where to find a decent man who wants a decent woman.

I've been a widow for two years and have been told that I am "desirable." I started to date a year ago, and every man I go out with hands me the same line: "What's one more slice off a loaf of bread that's already been cut?" — or words to that effect. If that doesn't work, I'm told that it's emotionally unhealthy for a woman who has been accustomed to a normal sex life to go without sex. Then they try to save my mental health by volunteering to provide me with a normal sex life. (Now it's therapy.)

There are men who want female companionship, but they tell you on the first date that they are not looking for a wife, as they don't want to get that involved.

Have men always been this way, Abby? Or is this a new breed?

DEAR POPULAR: No, it's not a new breed. Such men have always been around, but your luck is unusually bad to have encountered them all the first year. There are plenty of decent men in the world. You need new friends.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 years old and wear dentures. My problem is finding a man who will accept me as I am.

DEAR ABBY: I was married nearly two months ago, and had asked some of my cousins to be my bridesmaids. One cousin, I'll call her Myrtle, lives out of town, so when she accepted, I wrote telling her when she should be in town for the rehearsal. She wrote back saying she didn't have to come to say "rehearsal" because she had been a bridesmaid before and she knew what to do, but she said she'd be there for the wedding. Then I wrote back telling her what kind of dress to wear and so forth.

Well, the wedding was scheduled for 4 p.m. That time came, and no Myrtle. We waited for her for five minutes, and since there was no word from her, we were advised to go on with the ceremony, which is what we did.

Just after the ceremony began, in came Myrtle. She was dressed or anything. We couldn't stop everything and wait for her to get dressed, so we just proceeded without her.

She didn't stay for the wedding, and left no message. Her whole family got mad at me, so I wrote Myrtle a letter apologizing and explaining why we couldn't wait. That was over a month ago and still no word from her. They are still mad, so what's my next move? CARBONDALE, KAS.

DEAR CARBONDALE: You have made enough moves. The ladies day luncheon will be served at the Calloway County Country Club at noon. Please make reservations by Monday noon. # FINS 'N FEATHERS FRIENDS

TIPPIE'S VIGIL ENDS

ETOWAH, Tenn. — Tippi, a black and white dog, had greeted her owner, Joe McArthur, each time the L&N telephone lineman returned from a run. She was waiting the day her master died while away on the job. She refused to leave the L&N depot here, meeting each train, wagging her tail wistfully in hopes the train would bring him home to her. A railroad crew adopted her and cared for her. After 6 long years of waiting she died at the age of 16 years, and was buried on the depot lawn near a carefully tended bed of flowers.

The Stray Dog

Did you see him that wintry day,
That shaggy little fellow,
With droopy ears and bushy feet
And eyes so brown and mellow
Or did you see him in the rain,
So very slim and tall:
Or was he small with perky ears
And scare a tail at all?
He scanned the crowd so hopefully, so beseechingly,
While the whole world just went right on most unconcernedly
And did you leave him in the cold or in the rain,
Bewildered, frightened and alone,
To seek a friend in vain.

As you seem so interested in dog-lore just thought I would send you these two, copied from my scrap-book.

The Calloway County Sportsman Club will meet Monday night, April 8, at 7:30. The meeting will be held in the court room of the Calloway County Court House. All members are urged to attend.

Fishermen are on the move, but reports aren't reaching our desk.

Hill Gardner went fishing last week. His stringer held eight bass that had a combined weight of 26 pounds. He instructed us not to mention him, until he caught his usual score, the limit of course. Should we find out about his next catch we just might mention that also!

Calton Morgan, Morgan's Boat Dock, says the water is muddy and gradually rising. Weather conditions being most unfavorable, high winds etc., doesn't hamper the fishermen too much. Bass and croppie are still biting well.

Franklin Rogers, Murray Route Five, owns a pointer bird dog named "Lady". Lady has a litter of 8 pups, sired by a son of "Riggins White Knight". A picture and story was run elsewhere in the Ledger and Times last week.

Frank and wife Judy have one snail son, Ricky, 1 1/2 years of age.

Michael Sykes of Kirksey, Ky., is a hunting buddy. Mike owns a pointer and a setter pup.

THE HUNTING GAME

Last year (Nov. 3, 1967) we received this letter from a Ledger & Times friend. We share our criticism and our flowers with you. Following is the letter and a lovely poem: We hope you will enjoy both as much as we do:

November 3, 1967
I am enclosing a poem copied from the November issue of the "Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground", which perhaps you have seen. Since you are such a 'coon-hunting' enthusiast, I thought you might enjoy it just in case you didn't or if you had time and space, might publish it for other readers.

Neither my husband or myself like this sport or own a hound but I did think this poem very enjoyable, especially to those of the older generation.

I do enjoy your column; however, do wish you would stray off the topic of coons and hounds once in a while. How about quail, dove, fish, etc., instead of giving these sports just 'honorable mention'?

I do not want the publicity, therefore I am not signing my name.

Yours truly,
A Ledger & Times reader

This ole' hound and me's got old

The warmth of youth has now grown cold

Our bones are tired; our bodies bent

Our spirits lag; our life is spent

And still there comes a time at night

When shadows hang and the air's just right

When once again we feel the prod

To walk again those paths we trod

Many a night just me and him

We'd run that coon with heart and limb

Our step was swift as strong and sure

Our blood ran hot and wild and pure

Youth is made for hounds and men

And later years, who knows then

The coon runs hard with ageless grace

His scent cools fast each step he takes

But men must yield in the hunting game

As to dust we race; from whence we came

And age is the surest of all to come

With death behind to claim his own

So Red and me we, just set tight

And thank the Lord for another night

To sit together and remember when

Ah... but those times won't come again

The feel of death is in my bones

And old Red's spirit's done gone home

The hunter's horn blows loud and clear

But falls upon another's ear

But still I think when the hunter's moon

Falls cold and white on the red-eyed coon

From somewhere still and calm, up there

Old Red will raise his head and hear

And by his side in ageless wonder

This old coonhunter will feel a hunger

And with gentle hand reach down and touch

The head of the hound I loved so much.
